

Making an impact: Software Tools Articles at F1000Research

Software tool articles on F1000Research allow you to describe new software you have created to support or conduct research in any field.

These articles explore:

- Why you developed the software
- Details of the code, method, and analysis used
- Examples of data input sets
- Examples of outputs, and how to interpret these
- Tips on how to maximize the tool's potential

Published (up to 2021)

